

FLOYD BYRD TO HUNT HARLAN MURDERER

Brock Displeased Over Release of Dr. Winnes—New Probe Starts Today

Harlan, Ky., Nov. 8.—Senator Harlan Brock, who is reopening the investigation into the murder of Miss Lura Parsons, Sunday protested at the release of Dr. H. C. Winnes before he was given an opportunity to give any evidence against him.

Dr. Winnes was released from jail Saturday afternoon on a writ of habeas corpus following his arrest on Thursday on a warrant charging him with murder and sworn to by Mr. Brock.

Mr. Brock said he told officials Friday to keep his posted on any steps that might be taken by attorneys for Dr. Winnes. The first he knew of the motion to release the prisoner was late Saturday afternoon following the release, when Dr. Winnes and one of the attorneys met Mr. Brock in a telephone office.

Not only was he not notified of the steps by Dr. Winnes' attorneys, but the arguments before the county judge were held behind closed doors, with only three or four persons present," said Mr. Brock.

"I understand that attorneys for the doctor simply told County Judge Bailey in arguing the motion that he had no jurisdiction because the grand jury already had dismissed the warrant against him.

"County Attorney Forrester then said there was no new evidence so far as he knew and agreed that the court should not have jurisdiction and then the order was entered to release Dr. Winnes," Mr. Brock continued.

"I was given no chance to show any of the new evidence which the settlement school had obtained and has reduced to writing. I feel that I should have an opportunity to present this. The action of the officials, it seems to me, indicates undue partiality toward the doctor."

Mr. Brock said, in swearing to warrants against Dr. Winnes and James Robinson, negro water carrier at the convict road camp, he had in mind only the desire to keep these men in custody pending a complete investigation into the assault and murder of the settlement school teacher on the mountain trail September 7.

Robinson was brought to Harlan Saturday night from Frankfort and placed in jail here. He will be arraigned before Judge Bailey today and it is probable his examining trial will be set for Tuesday.

Dr. Winnes agreed to stay until today as a witness in Robinson's case. At the same time the probability exists that another warrant may be sworn to against Dr. Winnes and any new habeas corpus writ fought on the grounds of new evidence.

A. Floyd Byrd, Lexington attorney, has gone to Harlan to represent the Pine Mountain Settlement school in the second investigation which is being started today, seeking to find the slayer of Miss Lura Parsons, who was assaulted and murdered on a lonely mountain trail leading to the school September 7.

Women's clubs of the state and friends of the mountain school are raising a fund to prosecute the investigation, and many prominent people are pressing the inquiry.

IMPORTANT RULING ON LIQUOR STORAGE

Washington, Nov. 8.—Liquor legally acquired by a person for personal use, may be stored in a place other than his home, under a ruling today by the Supreme Court.

The Court declared Congress did not intend to prohibit the storage of liquor when the liquor was lawfully acquired for lawful purposes, and asserted the retention of liquor by a storage company was not "possession" within meaning of the Volstead act, nor would its transportation from such storage place to the home of the owner constitute "transportation" which the Volstead act prohibited.

AMERICAN LEGION ORGANIZED LABOR

New York, Nov. 8.—Work was started today by the 9,700 posts of the American Legion in this country on a census of all veterans of the war who are still inmates of government and private hospitals. The census is the first step of the legion in a campaign to make life more worth living for the sick and disabled.

A card will be made out for every man in hospital, giving information on his name, home address and organization with which he served. The data will be obtained by committees from all legion posts and the cards filed at national headquarters in Indianapolis. The index will be accessible to anyone wishing to locate a sick or wounded man.

Under the legion plan, every man in hospital will be visited at least once a week. Outings and entertainments will be organized, delicacies and reading matter will be supplied and every man will be made to feel that a personal interest is being taken in his case. The spirit of the plan is to humanize hospitalization work. Every one in the community will be asked to help, but the legion will lead the way.

There are more than 20,000 disabled and sick veterans confined in about 1,200 government and private hospitals.

FEDERAL COURT OPENING MONDAY

Judge Cochran Arrives and With Jurors Drawn, Business Will Start in Earnest At Once

With the arrival in the city Monday morning of Judge A. M. J. Cochran, a list of attorneys, U. S. marshals and a big list of other attaches, preparations were well on at noon for the beginning of the federal court term Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock. The selection of grand jurors, together with other preliminaries, will receive the first attention of the court. It is presumed that the week's end will mark the close of the session, despite the fact that there are more than a score of cases held over from the last term. Some of these, it is known, will be tried, while others will not, it being reported the defendants in several cases are still on the missing list.

The prohibition laws will be responsible for the bulk of the cases to be heard, and it will be represented in almost every phase of violation from bootlegging down to the purloining of whisky by the barrel. The latter charge confronts almost a dozen men, nine being from one place as a result of the robbery of the D. L. Moore distillery at Van Arsdale several weeks ago. This band, which was captured through the clever work of federal agents, terminated in the running down of what is believed to be the entire gang, some of whom have pleaded guilty, implicating others who are expected to follow suit, since there is little recourse otherwise.

There are said to be few of the old offenders, however, since the drastic measure Judge Cochran took when here before, which was to the effect that he would exercise leniency for the first offense, but warning them not to appear before him again, threatening very severe penalty in case they did. Seemingly, most of them have taken his advice.

During Monday afternoon, Miss Sara Monday, deputy clerk, who has charge of the offices most of the time here and who has been busy engaged recording the arrivals and preparing the preliminary work looking toward the introduction of the first cases, reports the several men up for naturalization papers will be given a hearing. There are several of them. They have been very attentive and anxious to earn their papers and have been reporting promptly when called to give testimony. It is probable that several will be given permanent papers and become naturalized citizens during the day.

There will be a number of other cases to be given consideration, among them alleged embezzlement, forgery and a few narcotic cases, one of the latest in the latter list being that of Dr. W. E. Williams, of Stanford. There is said to be a number of witnesses ready to testify, among them being Huston Giles of the south, said to be added to the use of morphine.

The corps of officials presiding at the present term comprises the following, all of whom are here:

Judge A. M. J. Cochran, presiding; J. W. Menzies, U. S. clerk; Miss Sara Monday, deputy clerk; Miss Florence Hanley, deputy clerk; Thomas D. Slattery, U. S. attorney; Chas. Fennell, assistant attorney; H. Clay Kaufman, assistant attorney; Miss Helen Donnelly, clerk to U. S. attorney; Henry M. Cox, U. S. marshal; Homer Stubbs, deputy marshal; Miss Virginia Sharpe, deputy marshal.

WINNES IS FREED AFTER REARREST

Man Charged Second Time With Slaying School Teacher, Cannot Be Held. Court Holds

Harlan, Ky., Nov. 8.—Dr. H. C. Winnes, state veterinarian, of Harlan and Frankfort, who was brought to Harlan Friday and again charged with slaying Miss Lura Parsons, Pine Mountain Settlement school teacher, on September 7, was released Saturday morning when the jurisdiction of local courts was attacked by E. P. Jones, his attorney.

At the hearing it was contended by his counsel that neither the county court nor the circuit court had jurisdiction for the reason that Dr. Winnes was arrested on the same charge at the instance of the county court in September, and his case was referred to the circuit court; here the case was referred to the grand jury. No indictment was found and Dr. Winnes was released on order of the circuit court.

Since no indictment has been returned, and no new evidence submitted, it was contended that the action of the court releasing him was still in effect and that he could not be held. The court sustained the motion to release Dr. Winnes. Dr. Winnes has all along protested his innocence.

The grand jury meets next in January. If new evidence were submitted to it which regarded as warranting an indictment, one could then be returned and jurisdiction in the circuit court would be renewed, it was said by H. Frant Forrester, commonwealth's attorney.

A plan will be worked out whereby the 20,000 veterans still in hospitals will be aided. Action probably will be taken on various Americanization ideas. The conference will be addressed by F. W. Galbraith, Jr., national commander of the Legion.

GOOD PRICE PAID EMPLOYE BY FARMER

Madison County Rate Higher Than Some Others—Tobacco Stripping Under Way

Madison county prices for country work compare favorably with those of other counties, while some are above, it is said, especially for cutting corn, this work having been almost completed in this section.

For shocks 16 hills square, 30 cents is usually paid and in some instances, 35 cents, where other counties report prices of from 25 to 30 cents. For 18 hills square, Madison county is paying 35 and 40 cents it is claimed, while the prices are quoted lower in other counties. It is believed the advance prices in Madison county are due to the excellence of the corn crop, some of it being the largest ever grown here.

There has been little employment thus far, it is claimed, in the way of stripping tobacco, and where it is in evidence there is no stipulated price, except between the employee and employer, it is said.

"We have been paying as much or more," said one tobacco raiser, "than me in other counties, and I expect those who work here will get as much for their efforts as anywhere else, and probably more."

When asked regarding the movement reported to ship much tobacco to the Lexington market, a number of them stated they wanted the best price they could get and believed they would stand as good a show getting a good price here as elsewhere.

"There will be more of a regulation price this year than ever before," said another grower "since there has been more standardization and grading work done, and this will be continued as the tobacco is stripped, and the result will be that buyers will see readily what they are getting, and the producer will just as readily realize what he should have for his product. I don't believe there will be so much slipshod work found about the markets this year," he stated, "the producers being more co-operative in their method of securing prices, sales, etc."

SMALL GIRL KNOCKS OUT MIGHTY TARZAN HERO

Donna Pepita Ramirez, playing the Algerian dancing girl in "Revenge of Tarzan," which Goldwyn is distributing for the Numa Pictures Corporation, claims to have knocked out both the breath and a tooth of the mighty Tarzan, played by Gene Pollar. Although quite a small girl, Miss Ramirez has the distinction of accomplishing what several groups of Algerians and Apaches had failed to do. It happened this way: A scene of the drama calls upon Tarzan to escape from a window, 20 feet above the ground, by jumping with Miss Ramirez in his arms. He jumped, but the little actress must have concentrated all of her 120 pounds in the wrong place, for when the two landed after the jump Mr. Pollar, the dancer, thought, seemed unusually quiet. He was—and there was a day's delay for him to catch his breath and be equipped with a new tooth.

"The Revenge of Tarzan," the second of the thrilling ape-man stories by Edgar Rice Burroughs to be filmed, comes to local picture houses on Thursday and Friday.

FIRE DAMAGES CHURCH FLOOR

The flames had reached the main floor of the church and by good work the department saved the building, which is one of the oldest places of worship in Madison county.

Before calling the fire department, have your property insured with L. P. Evans, the insurance man of Richmond, and you will not lose.
